cyclone, as Weather Forecaster Smith calls it, made its appearance in this latitude shortly after midnight this morning, and all through the early morning hours it raged with great fury.

In fact, as was predicted two days ago, it proved to be one of the most se vere storms that has visited New York this season, and ever since it struck the Florida coast last Sunday it has carried devastation and destruction in its track. nlike the hurricane of last Thursday, the centre of which passed northward along the course of the Gulf Stream. and at a considerable distance to the east of the coast, this storm has worked o'clock this morning was from Philadelphia, where the conditions were about the same as in this city.

Weather Propliet Smith said that the difficulty in locating and describing accurately the area of the storm arose from the fact that in its advance northward it destroyed all telegraphic communications. All that could be done was to keep track of its northern limit. This gives some indicationt of the vast amount of damage which it has caused throughout the country.

One of the most peculiar features of the storm was its gradual approach. For the last twenty-four hours the barometer had been gradually failing. Last night at 10.30 o'clock it was 29.90, and at 8 o'clock this morning it registered 22.44, which is the minimum.

The wind had also been gradually increasing in velocity during the same interval. From six miles an hour twenty miles an hour from the southeast.

WIND'S INCREASING VELOCITY.

In derival, was such a tide seen. The waves carried in by the strong flood tide, dashed against the sea wall with terrife force. The spray, which would be carried by the wind fully 300 feet inshore. The small boy was in his giory, and a mob of about 200 of the species held high carnival all the morning.

There was not a dry youngster among them, owing to the free shower haths given to every one who ventured within the creating force and the maximum was reached at 6.10 this morning when the hurricane had a velocity of fifty-four miles an hour from the southeast.

and were owned by James Cornell, as the company does not ferented.

Four four-story frame buildings on Grattan street, near Knickerbocker avenue, were caught by the wind shortly before 6 o'clock and went down like cardboard. The buildings were aimost finished. The roofs were on and very little remained to be done to put them in condition for use. The wind blew in through the windows and lifted the roofs. Then the walls fell in and the houses became a mass of debris.

The gable end of the roof of a two-story frame dwelling house, 45 Division avenue, Williamsburg, was torn out by the building is owned and occupied by John Brucckner. Nobely was injured.

A plate-glass window valued at 300 in George Schimacher's butcher shop, 415 Madison avenue, was blown in at 60 o'clock, and fifteen minutes later James Gannon, a plumber, of 466 Bridge street, lost a window worth $300.

Considerable damage was done to the shade trees throughout the city. The police have not vet made full reports of the trees that are down, but the broken stumps in the resistence portion of town bear sillent witness to the fury.

At 6 o'clock a big tree was blown down on Furman street, and fell directly across the car tracks. Cars on the Fulton Ferry division of the Atlantic Avenue Railroad Company were delayed for half an hour, until some one got an axe and cleared away the wreck.

Trees were also reported as having blown down on Lee avenue, near the Clymer street station, and on Schermerhorn street, near Hoyt.

Health Officers Prevented by the Heavy fee at Quarantine.

QUARANTINE, S. L. Aug. 29 -An attempt was made this morning by the Health Officer to board the steamers Runic, Maskelyne and Moravia, now in Quarantine. The Moravia arrived this morning from Hamburg with a cargof merchandles.

at 6 A. M., and went alongside the Moravia, but owing to the very heavy sea running it was impossible to board the steamer, and the tug returned to the dock to wait until the weather moderated.
